Having seen that if the act of 1884 be unconstitutional and void there is no lawful method of assessment upon these companies in reference to the subjects of taxation mentioned in such act, the vital question now arises whether the act of 1884 is constitutional. Upon the answer to this question depends the decision of this cause. I agree with the Supreme Court in that part of the opinion which holds the act of 1884 not invalid because it directs that the valuation and assessment shall be made by a board of assessors specially appointed for the purpose. It matters not what the machinery set in motion by the legislature to execute a tax law may be, so long as the principle lying at the root of the act is not antagonistic to the constitution. Nor would it affect the case if such machinery be found defective or if the board should make mistakes. The act gives the Supreme Court ample power to correct mistakes in the application of the act. Nor is the act of 1884 invalid because in the ascertainment of the value of the property of the companies the franchise is to be taken into account as one element of value. The opinion of the Supreme Court rightly holds that this subject is not debatable at the present day, and the doctrine has become already accredited by many decisions as well of the federal...
