Not illustrated. 1883 Excerpt: . . . together along the high road which led from the said Legnano to Montagnana, the footmen in front and the horsemen on their flank. They journeyed until they came close to the first ambush of the soldiers of the Seigneurie, who lay in a small village. But not suspecting anything, they passed beyond, and pushed on to within a short mile of Montagnana. Then the spy said to them: My lords, let me go on, and do you hold yourselves in all order here. I will find out what is doing in the town, so as to give you nptice thereof. So they let him go, but far better would it have been for them to cut off his head; for he was no sooner arrived than he went to the Lord Messer Andrea Gritti, and said to him: My lord, I have brought you, with cords...
